Itinerant Worker Is Facing Prison Term For Robbery

Held on a burglary charge, following his preliminary hearing in the court of Justice James E. Busch Saturday, Frederick Ward, 24, with two years of university training to his credit, awaits hearing in Superior court and probable indeterminate sentence at San Quentin.

Ward, a itinerant, was given work last week by George Evans in the kitchen of the Cecille Cafe and was allowed to use a back porch at the Evans home on south State street as his sleeping quarters. Wednesday night he entered the Evans house in the absence of the family and took a purse belonging to Mrs. Evans and robbed two savings banks of their few nickels and dimes. The purse contained $12 in cash.

Taking a taxi to The Forks, Ward spent some time there and went to the dance on Cold creek and from there of Lakeport where Sheriff Williams and Deputy Crawford caught up with him and brought him back.

Following his confession of the theft, Ward admitted a term in a Nevada state prison on conviction of a similar offense.

When brought back from Lakeport, Ward was considerably the worse for liquor and let fall remarks which make the officers believe he is the party who "borrowed" the J. D. Metzler truck at Hopland on the night of August 29, drove it to Cloverdale and abandoned it. He fits well the description of the man seen to park the truck in Cloverdale. It is believed Ward returned to Hopland by appropriating another car.

Early Morning Fire Damages Hub Cigar Store and Building

Fire, discovered shortly after 1 o'clock last Saturday morning in the pool and card room of the Hub Cigar Store on Standley street, caused an approximate damage of $2,000 to the stock, fixtures and building. The building is owned by W. A. Briggs. Insurance is carried on both the building, the cigar stock and equipment.

Some careless patron of the card room is thought to be responsible for the damage. The fire was set among bundles of San Francisco papers piled against the partition awaiting Sunday delivery. A cigar butt, or cigarette thrown among these at about the closing hour is the only explanation.

When the department arrived flames had gained good headway along the partition and opening up a way for the firemen to get to the blaze afforded ventilation and the flames roared up through the skylight in the pool room, making it extremely difficult to control without doing great damage with water. The department handled the job admirably, the bulk of the damage being confined to the pool room and its equipment.

The broken glass partition, cracked mirrors and a badly scorched ceiling, with some slight loss in tobacco stocks were in evidence in the front of the establishment.

Workmen began the job of repairing the building last Monday morning, with the expectation of having it completed by the close of the present week.

Bunco Game Lands Pair in Durance; Victimized Women

C. Redmond and Tony Valli languish is the county jail while officers attached to Sheriff Dick Williams' crew are searching for something better to offer them than a petty theft charge.

Redmond and Valli fell into the clutches of the law because of an overconfidence in their ability as confidence men and tarried too long within Sheriff Williams' baliwick, having made their headquarters at the home of the late Mrs. E. J. Moore of Hopland, from whom they secured a small sum of money by one of their many crooked angles.

When they transferred activities to Ukiah and had victimized three local women of small sums they stuck their heads in the lion's mouth, so to speak, and got a warm reception at hotel de Iron-Clad.

Mrs. Amelia Tomlinson was the last of their string of victims. Mrs. Tomlinson owns a small ranch property north of town which she is offering for sale. She was approached by Redmond, who posed as the agent for Valli, who supposedly was looking for just such a place, for which he was ready to pay spot cash. After negotiations had proceeded to a certain point it was suggested that Mrs. Tomlinson put up half of the amount necessary to have the property surveyed, the half being $17, which was paid by the lady.

Followed a week of silence on the part of the supposed purchaser and his agent and Mrs. Tomlinson took the matter up with the sheriff. Valli and Redmond were taken into custody last Friday morning at Hopland by Sheriff Williams and Deputies Wayne Crawford and Earl Bishop.

Booze Lands Parole Violator in Bastile; Attempt to Murder

John B. Thompson, committed to San Quentin prison in January, 1932, for complicity in the robbery of the W. N. Fulwider store and barber shop at Calpella, and later admitted to parole, was taken into custody at Hopland last Sunday night by Deputy Sheriff Wayne Crawford. The charge was attempt to commit murder.

Thompson made a muderous attack on William Small at the latter's riverside camp near Hopland, beating Small over the head with a club until himself attacked and subdued by Robert Small, son of Thompson's intended victim.

At the preliminary hearing, held in Hopland Wednesday before Judge Don Ward it developed that Thompson, crazy drunk, had assaulted Small without provocation. Thompson and Small were strangers.

Thompson is held to answer in Superior court.

In the matter for which Thompson and two companions were sent to San Quentin, Thompson plead guilty before the late Judge M. H. Iversen and was sentenced for second degree burglary. He was received at the prison January 22, 1932, and February 17 of the following year his term was fixed by the board of pardons at seven years. He was 24 years old at the time of his commitment and had been a resident of Redwood Valley since 1924.

At San Francisco last week a preliminary conference was held, when Hoberg brothers, Vice President Chapman and other empire association officers met in consultation, which was followed by beginning of extensive preparations for the fall sessions.

State's Limit Cuts Dove Season Short

Dove hunters in northern California will have to content themselves with a 9-day session this year because of state regulations, the 1935 season running from September 21 to 30, both dates inclusive. Shooting hours are from 7 a. m. to sunset each day of the season, and a hunter may kill 15 in one day or 30 in one week, but he may not possess more than 15 birds at any one time.

While the federal regulation permits taking doves until January 5, state law closes the season in California on September 30, when shooting must cease at sunset.

With the exception of the clothes the boy had with him outside, and the blanket, all was lost.

Supervisors Given Details in Advance Of Jury's Session

That Mendocino county "is not meeting the obligations which society owes to its aged, and others who find it necessary to use the county hospital," is one of the conclusions drawn by the special Grand jury committee, appointed to investigate complaints filed from many parts of the county regarding treatment of inmates at the county farm and hospital.

The committee's report was prepared for presentation to the regular session of the board of supervisors last Tuesday, but the board had adjourned before the report had been completed. In a letter to the board, Attorney Charles Kasch, foreman of the 1935-36 Grand jury, pointed to the "conditions and imperative need" as the motive for handing the report to the supervisors, instead of withholding it for a meeting of the Grand jury as a whole.

The Grand jury named the committee of investigation in answer to the "great criticism of the administration from many parts of the county." The committee determining upon an unannounced visit, went to the hospital three times on September 9, taking with them four others, not of the Grand jury committee, invited to accompany one or more of the committee members. At the conclusion of the inspection, the report says, a conference for several hours was held and "this report fairly represents the consensus of opinion."

The report was filed September 10 and a copy mailed to each member of the board of supervisors.

It is the opinion of the committee that the present buildings are entirely adequate, especially if use is made of the building known as the detention home, which is large, exceptionally adapted for hospital purposes, clean and sanitary, and virtually all unused.

The report describes the porches of some of the older buildings as in bad repair—one dangerous—and gates dilapidated. A small expenditure would be necessary to repair these, it is claimed. Paint is badly needed.

Of the conditions of the inmates the report says all seven visitors were "indescribably shocked at treatment of several patients." That under one ward, in a small, dark, unsanitary room, with the door locked, was found a bedridden man, who would have gone unnoticed had the committee not had advance information of his case.

In another room, in another part of the building, says the report, was found another bedridden man and the visitors were again "indescribably shocked" at conditions found. The report avers the room had not been cleaned for months, and that cobwebs and dirt were "plentiful." The committee feels that without previous information this case would not have been found, and says, "It is our opinion that no conditions or circumstances whatsoever can justify maintaining human beings in such surroundings."

In the women's ward is reported an elderly woman, who has been in the place for several weeks with a fractured hip. The statement says, "We don't care to go into details, other than to say that she was old and feeble." The foreman of the Grand jury and another called on her at noon and found her untouched lunch on a table beside her bed. It consisted of a large plate of beans, cabbage boiled brown, a slice of tomato, piece of bread and butter.

Members of the committee talked with several of the inmates it is claimed, and many volunteered information of which no record was kept, the committeemen preferring to confine itself to what it saw, "and these observations have compelled us to make our immediate report to your Honorable Body."

The detention home, men's hospital and some wards were found sanitary, it is told. "As to the other wards, the sanitary conditions were not such as would make them fit for the habitation of human beings. One room off a men's ward we found especially offensive, though on the third visit we

There's lots of room in the FORD V-8

EVERY ONE who steps into the Ford V-8 for the first time is surprised at its roominess. There's exceptional seat room, leg room and head room in all body types — the whole car gives you a feeling of substantial size.

The Ford gives you extra body room because of the compact design of the V-8 engine — an exclusive Ford feature at a low price. This V-8 engine takes up less space in the hood and permits more of the car's length to be used for passenger comfort. Many a car selling at a higher price does not give you as much interior room as the Ford V-8.

Rear seats are wide and restful . . . three people can ride comfortably in the front seat of the Fordor Sedan, Fordor Touring Sedan, Convertible Sedan and Phaeton, and in the Coupes and Roadster. The seat of the Ford V-8 Roadster is 52 inches wide. A ride in the Ford V-8 will show that it combines unusual body room with fine-car performance, safety and comfort.

Willits News

WILLITS, Sept. 11.—There was not as much travel over the Redwood highway during the Admission day holiday as there was the week before. The travel was good and all our auto camps, hotels and restaurants did a good business, but were prepared to handle more. From now on the travel will commence to dwindle, for we can already see signs of approaching winter.

Firemen's Picnic

The Firemen's picnic and barbecue at Quadrio park last Sunday drew a large crowd as not less than 500 people attended the festivities during some portion of the day. The Spanish beans were flavored just right and the other trimmings were all good. Everybody had all of the meat they wanted. Games and dancing took up the balance of the afernoon and evening

Died While Hunting

L. H. Booe fell dead while hunting near Hearst last Thursday morning. Early that morning Mr. Booe, accompanied by Charles and Will Spangle, went out for his last hunt and when they reached the Circle W ranch they separated, Mr. Booe going north and the Spangle brothers south. Before they parted they agreed to meet where the auto was parked at 10 o'clock and eat their lunch. The Spangle boys returned at the time agreed and after waiting until almost night sent word in to Willits that Mr. Booe was lost. That night three machines and about ten men went out to look for Mr. Booe, but because of darkness could make no progress. About daybreak Vincent Beebe started out on the trail Mr. Booe had gone and after going about 400 yards he looked up the side of the hill and saw Mr. Booe lying on the ground, about 100 feet from the bottom of the canyon. It was a steep climb and as the deceased was troubled with his heart the presumption is that the exertion was too much for him and that he fell and died instantly. Supporting this theory is the fact that he fell on his face and one hand was resting on his rifle and there was no trace of a death struggle.

L. P. Anker was notified and went out and brought the body back to Willits and prepared it for burial. The funeral was held from the Anker funeral parlors Sunday afternoon, Chaplain G. H. Jones officiating and the remains were laid away for the long rest in the Odd Fellows cemetery.

On repeated occasions recently Mr. Booe had expressed a desire to die this way and his wish was gratified. The day before hs death he told a friend he wanted to die with his boots on, as they were discussing the illness of a friend who is slowly dying by inches.

Lawson Hughes Booe was born in Indiana, October 13, 1873, and came to California with his wife 22 years ago and the last 13 years has lived in Willits. He was a very likeable man, a good citizen and neighbor and very much interested in public affairs. Besides the widow he leaves several other near relatives in this state who came to attend the funeral. They were Ed Washburn and daughter, Mrs. B. F. Proctor and husband, who came up from Los Angeles.

Record Corn Crop

Homer Mitten has an 8-acre field of corn that averages nine feet in height and has ears a foot long. It will be ready for harvest next month. It is by far the best corn to be seen in this part of the county and is up to the standard of the fields back east where climate and soil are particularly adapted for the growth of this national crop. This particular field was planted last May, after the last rain fell, and was not irrigated. Had a sample been sent to the state fair Mr. Mitten would undoubtedly have carried off all of the ribbons.

Figone-Biasotti Wedding

Miss Kathryn Figone and Madeo Biasotti were married at St. Anthony's Catholic church last Sunday morning, Rev. Father Finbar O'Callaghan officiating. The attendante were Miss Bernice Figone, sister of the bride, and Mead Rossi of Oakland, cousin of the groom. Following the ceremony the wedding party adjourned to the home of the bride where an elaborate wedding breakfast was partaken of by the twenty-odd relatives of the happy couple, which included the parents and other relatives, about twenty of whom came up from Oakland to attend the festivities.

Following the feasting and congratulations the young couple left on an auto trip through the north the particulars of which they failed to divulge. Following their honeymoon the couple will make their home in Oakland where the groom is in business with his father.

The bride was born and raised in Willits and is one of our most estimable women. She graduated from our local high school with the class of '32, after which she took a business course at Oakland. Following this she obtained a position with the Federal Land Bank at Berkeley and was thus employed up to a few months ago.

The groom was raised in Oakland and after graduating from the elementary and high schools of that city took the full course in engineering at the Polytechnic College of Engineering. Not being able to obtain a position in that line of work he went in business with his father, who was already well established in another line. He is said to be a young man of sterling qualities and has a very likeable appearance.

Dunham-Crocket Wedding

Miss Ethel Dunham and Marvin Crocket were married at the home of Chaplain G. H. Jones last Sunday evening, Miss Birdie Dunham and Elvan Snider were the witnesses. The bride wore a brown enemble and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers.

Following the ceremony the wedding party of about 20 relatives and friends were served refreshments at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Margie Dunham, after which the happy couple left for an unknown destination to pass a short honeymoon.

Both bride and groom were born and raised in Mendocino county and this has been their home almost continuously. The bride moved to Willits with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Dunham, seven years ago and since graduating from our grammar school has been attending the high school and is now in her senior year. Being a sensible young woman, matrimony will not interfere with her studies and she expects to complete the course and graduate next summer.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Crocket and is employed at the Willits Ice & Soda Works. He is a splendid young man and is popular with all who know him.

Friday night the near relatives and close friends of the bride-to-be arranged a kitchen shower at the home the young couple will occupy. A large and splendid assortment of all kinds of useful articles were on the list and the 22 women present brought along the ingredients for a first-class feast. Following the refreshments they played whist.

Good Lighting

does this to darning

Why is darning so much harder on the eyes than reading? Because the darning thread is usually the same color as the material. Then, too, the material is usually dark and absorbs much of the light so that eyes must work hard to watch the needle and thread. Better lighting helps make darning easier for the eyes by reducing the poor color contrast between thread and cloth. More light makes up for the dark material and in a way serves to "magnify" the size of needle and thread which the eyes must follow constantly.

District Attorney Lilburn Gibson was in Hopland Wednesday attending justice court where three cases were tried.

Government Seeks National Forests Land in Redwoods

Regional U. S. forest service has prepared the cruising party to send into the redwood area of Sonoma, Mendocino, Humboldt and Del Norte counties which will begin preliminary negotiations for the purchase of the 200,000 acres of redwood lands, authorized by the National Forests Reservation commission in Washington on August 31.

The proposed purchase will all be within the wto redwood acquisition zones whch together will include approximately 475,000 acres.

Zone 1, situated in southern Mendocino county and northern Sonoma county, lies entirely west of the Redwood highway. Its northern boundary begins just south of Fort Bragg and extends eastward nearly to Willits. The eastern boundary extends southward past Boonville to a point some miles west of Healdsburg. The Pacific coast of California forms the western boundary, except for a small area near Point Arena, which is not included.

The major portion of Zone 2, although located near the coast of Del Norte and northern Humboldt counties, lies east of the Redwood highway. On the north the zone begins near the Oregon state line just above Smith river and extends southward nearly 60 miles bounded on the east, for the most part, by the Klamath national forest, and on the west by the Pacific ocean.

Regional Forester S. B. Show explained the commission's establishment of the acquisition zone merely means that the commission has approved forest service plans to acquire the redwood land. It carries with it no appropriation to finance the acquisition.

The regional forester's office will determine what parcels of land within the zones are suitable for the proposed Redwood National Forest. Then it will ascertain the prices at which they may be purchased. If the prices are reasonable, the purchases will be recommended to the commission. If the commission approves the terms, the parcels will be acquired from time to time as rapidly as funds are available.

The approximately 52,000 acres of cut-over pine timber lands recently added to the Tahoe National Forest were acquired at a price slightly in excess of $103,000.

Most of the newly-acquired Tahoe lands were purchased from the Hobart estate and adjoin a large section of the 600-mile-long Sierra Way, lying between Hobart Mills, Nevada county, and Sierraville, Sierra county.

Show says this purchase was in line with the forest service policy of acquiring cut-over timber lands for reforestation purposes as well as those bearing only virgin growth.

The Board then proceeded with the auditing and allowing or dis-allowing the claims filed with the Clerk against the County and at 12 M. adjourned to and reconvened at 1:30 P. M. September 10, 1935, with all members and Deputy Clerk present.

Court House Janitor J. J. McGimsey appeared before the Board and tendered his resignation as said janitor, requesting that due to ill health he would appreciate having the Board take action upon it at this time and relieve him of his duties immediately. The Board thereupon accepted his resignation and thanked him for his long and faithful service to the county.

A. E. Green was then appointed to succeed J. J. McGimsey as janitor of the courthouse.

At the hour of 2 o'clock P. M., the time set for the opening of the bids for the construction of a portion of the Leggett Valley-Rockport County Highway as advertised for in the Dispatch-Democrat, the said bids were opened and read, and action thereon postponed until 4 P. M. of this day.

County Treasurer D. C. Smith appeared before the Board and requested that he be instructed as to what dispositon he should make of two Fourth Liberty Loan bonds owned by the county.

After discussion it appeared to the Board that it would be to the advantage of the county to sell these bonds and the County Treasurer was so directed.

The Chairman was authorized to accept a deed in behalf of Mendocino County from A. M. and C. M. Ornbaun for a strip of land to be used as a road connecting with a bridge to be built across Rancheria creek in the First Supervisorial Dstrict, and the Clerk was instructed to have said deed recorded.

The Chairman was instructed to sign the contracts with the U. S. Biological Survey for the hunting and trapping of predatory animals and with the Division of Forestry of the State of California for fire prevention.

W. A. Thornton appeared before the Board and stating he no longer had time to act for the Board in investigating veteran's burials claims asked that they appoint someone in his place. The Board thereupon appointed J. C. Roberts, Post Service Officer of Lewis White Post No. 76, American Legion to act in this capacity.

The hour of 4 o'clock P. M. having arrived, upon motion regularly made, seconded and carried by a unanimous vote the Board accepted the bid of Barton and Ells, in the sum of $18,984.20 as being the lowest and best bid for the construction of a portion of the Leggett-Valley Rockport County Highway, directed the District Attorney to draw the form of bond and agreement for said work and instructed the Chairman to approve same.

Upon recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools of Mendocino County the acted upon the petitions properly filed with this Board and joined and annexed the Long Valley School District, the Farley School District, the LaRue School District and the Wheelbarrow School District with Willits Union Elementary School District.

A resolution was adopted requesting Hon. M. B. Pratt, State Forester of the State of California to etsablish, at as early a date as possible, a C. C. C. camp at a point near Branscomb in Mendocino County, for the purpose of building trails and roads through and within the forests of said Mendocino County in the interests of better fire protection. The Clerk was directed to mail a copy of said resolution to the State Forester, Hon. M. B. Pratt and t othe Congressman from this Congressional District, Hon. Clarence F. Lea.

A resolution was adopted to join with the counties of San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma and Humboldt in forming a Shoreline District Directorate for the purpose of securing a cooperative survey of the Shoreline Highway and to seek the assistance of the Works Progress Administration or other agencies in the work of said survey; and further appropriating the sum of $2385.00 for said work, and appointing Supervisor Charles R. Perkins as director from Mendocino County.

Social Agent Martha Toles reported, to the Board, the results of her investigations of indigent or needy matters and after considering the same seven new applications for old age security were granted effective September 1, 1935 and one new application for state children's aid effective the same date.

The Board then accepted and approved the plans and specifications for a 150 foot steel span bridge to be constructed over the Navarro river near River Rest on the Philo-Greenwood road in the First Supervisorial District, as prepared by County Surveyor E. H. Smith and ordered that sealed bids be advertised for the construction of same in the Dispatch-Democrat, said bids to be opened at 1:30 o'clock P. M. September 23, 1935.

The report of the viewers heretofore appointed to view out the old Hearst-Eden Valley road as filed herein was accepted by the Board.

An erroneous assessment to Frederick J. and Alice Fewing on page 324 of volume 2 of the 1935 Assessment Roll of Mendocino County was ordered cancelled as petitioned for.

The reports of Martha Toles, Social Agent, relative to admissions to the County Farm and Hospital during the month of August, of Dr. H. O. Cleland, Superintendent of the County Farm and Hospital and of the Matron of the Detenton Home were accepted and approved and filed.

Claims against the Third Supervisorial District No. 3, as per Clerk's No. 675 to 692 inclusive, were by a unanimous vote allowed by the Board out of the County General No. 3 fund.

The claims against Mendocino County signed by two members of the auditing committee were allowed as approced, as shown on the allowance book of this said Board.

The Board then adjourned.

Hogs Are Hogs This Fall

Every hog raiser has his eyes focused on just three things. His hogs—feed prices—and the stock yards.

He knows that if there was a time when time meant money, that time is this fall.

Three to four weeks earlier to market may mean a couple or more dollars, more profit on each hog.

Dr. Hess HOG SPECIAL fits right into a hurry up program. On tests with different pens of hogs, the pen which was given Dr. Hess Hog Special was in the market 21 days before the pens which did not receive Hog Special.

The time saved was not all. These hogs required 188 pounds less feed, per hog, to reach market weight.

Let Hog Special help your hogs. They will have better digestion, better appetite, and they will get the minerals they require.

LOOKING at WASHINGTON

By HUGO SIMS,
Special Washington Correspondent to the Dispatch-Democrat

Political leaders are putting some emphasis on the "young" voter and hence we have the "Young Democrats" and the "Young Republicans" being received with open arms by the hard-boiled veterans and every effort being made by both parties to line up the youth of the land. The average citizen who wonders what it is all about might reflect that, according to the statistics, there will be 9,000,000 new voters next fall and that capture of this bloc is quite understandable to those who want to win.

The furore over the oil concession that the Ethiopian emporer gave out as a last effort to checkmate Mussolini, has died down with announcement of its cancellation by the American holders of the grant. Earlier it had been apparent that the United States government was not going to do anything particular to protect the rights of its citizens under the document. Secretary Hull, after a few days thinking, made it perfectly plain that the newly signed document would not affect the policy of the nation.

The employees of the federal government have increased from 560,000 when President Roosevelt assumed office to 729,769, of which 450,000 are under civil service. This number does not include, of course, the army or the navy, the CCC workers, the men on employment relief or the farmers who receive benefit payments. Breaking up the number of employees we find that the Postoffice department has 259,454, the War department 66,722 and other agencies string along to bring up the total. The AAA has 6,379 and the department or agriculture 37,621. The Resettlement administration lists 9,949 and the TVA some 17,162. The total number of civil executive employees is only 12,500 below the peak figure reached during the World war.

A billion and a quarter dollars of Liberty bonds, the last outstanding of the enormous war issues, have been called for October 15 and at the same time the treasury seeks $500,000,000 to add to its working balance. This will bring the national debt to $29,500,000,000, an all-time high. However, due to refunding operations of the treasury, which obtained lower interest rates, the government will save about $100,090,000 a year in interest on the eight billion dollars of Liberty bonds that have been converted. Incidentally the government's working balance is only about $1,200,000,000 with about one-third set aside to retire bank notes.

Critics of the administration point to the recent failure of the government to sell all of the $100,000,000 of Farm Mortgage bonds at 1½ per cent as a warning that there is a limit to the credit of the country. Others see nothing to it, pointing out that the low interest rate had to compete in an improving market and that failure of the public to subscribe to the full amount offered merely indicated that funds were finding other satisfactory investment areas. Also, one hears that Secretary Morgenthau is now ranked among those who seek an early balance of the national budget and George Creel, well known writer, says treasury experts see this goal attined by 1939. However, President Roosevelt declared, when questioned, that he hodn't read the forecast, and besides he didn't know who'd be president in 1939!

A survey of power projects under way in the United States, made for the purpose of checking activity along this line, reveals twenty state and federal developments that will cost $630,350,000 when completed. Included in the list is the Boulder dam, a $165,000,000 project now virtually completed. It was started long before the Roosevelt administration. However, the TVA is rapidly completing its three dams to cost $94,000,000. The Missouri river development centering around Fort Peck, in Montana, to be completed in 1937, will cost $84,000,000; the Grand Coulee project, on the Columbia river, also to be finished in 1937, will take $63,000,000 and the Bonneville dam, also on the Columbia river, is to be completed in 1936 at a cost of $55,000,000. Besides the twenty under construction there are numerous projects, either proposed or pending in congress or elsewhere for consideration.

Six major administration bills failed to get through congress, including the Walsh bill to force certain provisions on government contractors; the Ship Subsidy bill to replace indirect bounties through "mail contracts;" the regulation of comodity exchanges, a companion to the SEC; the protocols for adherence to the World court; the third deficiency appropriation bill, carrying $93,000,000 for various agencies and the Copeland Food and Drug bill to tighten restrictions on advertising for foods, drugs, cosmetics and the like.

While third parties rarely amount to anything in American politics they occasionally manage to damage the regulars, as in 1912 when Wilson came in as a minority president. There is little or no chance, under our two party system, for a third party candidate to crash the White House personally. All that he can hope to do is to help another man into the big house. Conservative Democrats are talking about a ticket, to be used to defeat the president, by splitting his party, and thus insuring the election of the Republican candidate. Bainbridge Colby is talking and so are others. W. R. Hearst, independent newspaper magnate, who backed the president, is on the warpath and suggests that Al Smith lead the campaign although he and Mr. Smith had bitter words in the past. On the other edge of the picture, Governor Olsen and Governor Talmage threaten to slice away radical support of the chief executive. Republicans naturally wish them all much success.

Encouraged the Republican national organization is against any dickering with disgruntled Democrats, preferring to go it alone, and asserting confidence that the people will turn to the party again. They feel sure of New England and look to the development of some new farm program to win back the farmers if the AAA is declared unconstitutional. Quite likely it will be a revised equalization fee plan, backed with the argument that it would not only give the farmers a good return on their crop here but open up foreign markets as well.

Meanwhile organized labor gives indications of being ready to go down the line for the president in the campaign next year. After the Guffey Coal bill had been signed into law John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, in a speech on Labor day, openly declared that the union would stand to the president "to a man." He said that "organized labor in the contest that is to come has no choice but to support the president morally, with votes and with its frugal pennies" and predicted his reelection. Whether other big unions will follow this lead is uncertain, but it would not be at all surprising to see it happen.

Permanent watch on the activity of Washington lobbyists is the goal of the Senate's Lobby committee, which has been made a permanent adjunct to the senate rather than a temporary investigating committee. Chairman Black thinks that surveillance will more effectively control lobbying than registration of lobbyists although public utility workers are already required to be listed. The idea is to keep the lobby committee ready to jump into an inquiry any time unusual activity is noted. Meanwhile the committee's chief investigator is travelling around the country checking up on the activity of utility companies in fighting the holding company bill.

JANITOR RESIGNS

J. J. McGimsey, who has served as janitor of the courthouse for the past 30 years, handed his resignation to the board of supervisors last Tuesday, which was accepted and the board voted its thanks to Mr. McGimsey for his long and faithful service. A. E. Green was appointed to fill the vacancy. McGimsey's resignation was because of ill health.

PRESIDED AT S. R.

Superior Judge W. D. L. Held presided over a calendar of five cases at Santa Rosa last Wednesday, in an extra session ordered by the state judicial council, Judge Donald Geary being disqualified. During the last weeks of October, Judge Held will be in the Sonoma county seat to preside in Judge Hilliard Comstock's court, it is said.

Russell Ells of Covelo, county road engineer for Supervisor Bittenbender's district, was in Ukiah Tuesday on business concerning his duties.

TAX RELIEF PLAN EASILY DEFEATED

Property Owners Must Guard Against Increase of Expenditures or Pay Costs

DANGER THREATEN

Savings Made Possible Must Be Protected or Higher Taxes Will Be the Result

By RALPH H. TAYLOR
Executive Secretary, Agricultural Council of California

California farmers, together with other common property taxpayers, will benefit by average tax reductions of 15% or better in their fall tax bills if they are vigilant in guarding against unwarranted increases in local expenditures!

In many rural areas, according to the state board of equalization, the tax savings should run far in excess of the 15% average, with reductions in some counties going as high as 40%.

But possible reductions can be made actual reductions, the board warns, only by an aroused public opinion and by concerted action on the part of taxpayers throughout the state to compel counties, cities and districts to stay within the 5% budget increase limitation provided by law.

"The broadening of the local tax base by the transfer of public utility properties from the state to local assesment rolls has increased the property subject to local taxation by more than a billion dollars," said Richard E. Collins, chairman of the state board.

"Translated into terms of the average taxpayer, this should result in an annual tax saving of at least 15% for all farmers, home-owners and other common property taxpayers. The relief is within reach, but the responsibility of guaranteeing that it shall be actual, rather than theoretical, rests with the taxpayers and their county boards of supervisors."

Setting forth that the constitutional amendment, known as the Riley-Stewart Tax Relief Plan, was adopted by the people in 1933 with the intent of easing the burden on real property owners, Collins warned that the whole purpose of the program will be defeated if local officers are permitted to disregard the 5% limitation on expenditure increases.

"We will take steps to hold the auditor or disbursing officer of every political subdivision strictly accountable for expenditures in excess of the limitations imposed by law," said Collins, "but the real job rests with the taxpayer himself.

"If a taxpayer has evidence that his local officials are disregarding the 5% limitation and thereby violating the law, he has the right to secure an injunction to prevent such illegal expenditures. One or two suits of this type will quickly put an end to unwarranted spending and will guarantee the taxpayer the savings to which he is legally entitled."

Local governments confronted with emergency conditions, demanding unusual expenditures, have the right of appeal to the state board of equalization for permission to exceed the 5% limitation, according to Collins, or they can submit the question direct to the people of the district.

But unless such permission is obtained, the disbursing officers of any county, city or district exceeding the 5% limitation are personally liable.

From the taxpayer's standpoint, the danger in the present situation is that local expenditures can be greatly increased without any corresponding increase in the local tax rate. Actually, however, the taxpayer will be footing the bill, for the state, under the Riley-Stewart plan, assumed the cost of public school support and this cost is now being defrayed through the sales tax.

Unless the savings made possible by the return of utility properties to local tax rolls are protected and guaranteed, California citizens will be in the unhappy position of paying higher taxes as the result of a program which was designed to bring tax relief. And the responsibility, as Collins points out, rests largely with the taxpayer himself.

CANCEL CAPITAL STOCK

The Transamerica Corporation has announced its intention to take the necessary legal steps to cancel 439,467 shares of the capital stock retired to treasury since the first of this year and an additional 1,147,970 shares previously acquired. It is also the intention to cancel 77,173 shares reserved for exchanges. This will reduce the total number of issued shares of capital stock of Transamerica Corporation from 24,847,484 to 23,182,874 and will increase the equity of the stockholders proportionately.

French Horn Once Banned in Some Musical Circles

The French horn is one of the most valuable and difficult wind instruments in the orchestra. It has a slender conical tube wound round in coils upon itself, and consists of four principal parts—the body, the crooks, the mouthpiece and the slides.

The body is the main tube, the crooks are interchangeable spiral tubes of varying length which alter the pitch and key of the instrument; the mouthpiece is different from other wind instruments in that it is funnel-shaped and not cup-shaped.

The slides are pairs of sliding tubes by means of which the instrument may be tuned.

The horn is also equipped with three valves to be operated by the player in producing the various tones in the scale.

The tone of the horn is mellow, rich and sonorous and is distinguished at the same time by a certain human quality which is vastly different from all the other members of the brass section.

The origin of the horn must be sought in prehistoric times, when, says an authority in the Washington Post, by breaking off the tip of a short animal horn, one or at best two notes were obtained. This was undoubtedly the origin of the horn that was developed later and used in the symphony orchestra. It seems strange to think the horn was opposed at first, for now it is heard in nearly every orchestral piece. Yet when it first entered the orchestra it was considered coarse and unfit to mingle with the more delicate violins and oboes.

Bedlam of Nationalities Line Singapore Streets

The crowded Singapore streets present a bedlam of nationalities, each garbed in the homeland attire as modified by an equatorial sun, observes a correspondent in the Washington Post. Countless Chinese coolies, barefooted, sport abbreviated black shorts for their complete costume. Tall, powerful, brown Sikhs from the hills of India parade in long shirts worn outside of a voluminous pair of white pants; their long hair bound by a turban which hangs well below the shoulder. Thousands of coal black, painfully thin Tamils from south India are a marked contrast to the northern Indians as they wander about in brightly tinted loin-cloths. The "forgotten men" of Malaya, the native Malays themselves, outnumbered by their yellow and black brothers from China and India, lodge their Mohammedan caps squarely on their brown heads and wend their way unconcerned with the drama of a fast moving age. Egyptians, Arabs, Filipinos, Siamese, Japanese, Javanese, Burmese—all mingle in this truly international city.

Losing Its Rattle

Contrary to the popular belief, you cannot always tell a rattlesnake's age by the number of joints on its rattle. This reptile is born with nothing more than a horny nob at the end of its tail, but after three days it sheds its skin and a joint is added to the nob. The skin-shedding process is repeated several times a year, and with each succeeding molt another bony ring is added. Until it has accumulated four or five joints the rattlesnake cannot make more than a faint rustling sound, but as the number of joints increases it is able to express annoyance by rapidly vibrating its tail, producing a shrill "rattle" which may be heard 20 yards away. When the number of joints exceeds seven, they generally begin to break off, so that when an elderly rattlesnake loses its temper it also loses part of its rattle.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

Japanese Superstition

In Japan, the dead are laid with their heads toward the north. Therefore the living consider this position very unlucky and invariably sleep with their heads toward either the east or the south. This proper sleeping position is so important, writes O. M. Olson, San Francisco, Calif., that many of them, when on journeys, carry a compass so they can get their bearings at bedtime.

Infinitely Small

With the sense "infinitesimal," this expression is in good literary usage, and has appeared at various times since 1740. One may properly say "infinitesimally small"; in fact, this adverbial modifier is more frequent than "infinitely." Either usage is supported by good authority.—Literary Digest.

Defended Nationality

The idea of nationality as we know it is so modern that, it is said, the first concrete demonstration of pure nationality was the Peninsular war against Napoleon, 1808 to 1814, when the Spaniards rose in arms to defend the integrity of their nationality.

Sub-Tropical England

New Quay, in Cornwall, England, is so warmed by the Gulf Stream that sea bathing may be enjoyed virtually throughout the entire winter. Subtropical plants grow continuously throughout the southwestern shore country of England.

Queen Elizabeth Musical; Could Play the Virginal

The word harpsichord was invented because it was seen that the instrument had a harp-like shape, and when a keyboard was added chords could be struck on it. Virginals, spinets, and clavichords are all like the early harpsichords, the difference being in the way the string is plucked, whether by a quill or wedges of brass.

Queen Elizabeth played the virginal well, and in her day set musical fashions. Instrumental-makers and composers were very busy in the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries making better instruments and writing music for them. Later harpsichords had a device for opening and shutting the lid to increase or decrease the sound, and there was a separate keyboard with single strings to make soft sounds. All Eighteenth-century orchestras had a harpsichord, played generally by the conductor.

By the Nineteenth century the piano had arrived, for people wanted more light and shade in music, and the harpsichord could not produce it. Curiously enough, a Spaniard wrote the best early harpsichord music, Domenico Scarlatti, whose music sounds fresh even today.—Montreal Herald.

Color, Luster, Shape, Determine Pearl's Value

Four factors determine the value of a pearl—color, luster, shape and size, according to an authority in the Washington Star. While many kinds of oysters make pearls, the kind in demand are a few only, made by mollusks possessing a special type of shell with an inner lining of mother-of-pearl—that is, a lining with a fine iridescence. This same iridescence is imparted to the pearl, giving it the rare beauty desired in gems.

While pearl colors are largely a matter of individual taste, most people seem to prefer the white stones. But to the true expert the pink pearl of a fine delicate tint is most desirable. Golden yellows and greenish blacks are also highly prized by connoisseurs. The technical term for the characteristic pearly luster is "orient." This exists in various intermediate stages between dull and bright. If a pearl has the finest orient—that is, an unusually brilliant one—it might be worth many times the value of the same-sized pearl with inferior luster. Large-sized pearls of exceptional quality are exceedingly rare. Generally speaking, the most desirable shape is a perfectly spherical pearl.

Tulip, the Wonder Flower

For centuries the tulip has been looked upon as a wonder flower in many countries, but it has long been associated especially with the famous tulip fields of Holland. It has often been called "the flower that set a nation mad" because of the craze for these gay but simple blossoms which began in the Netherlands in 1591 and reached its highest point in 1637. During this period, when only two bulbs of the September Augustus were to be had, one was purchased for 4,000 florins, a new carriage, two horses and a complete set of harness, while the other was sold for 12 acres of land. This tulip mania reached such proportions that hundreds of families had become impoverished and the government was forced to interfere and put an end to the gambling in tulip bulbs.

Animal Ecology

In a general way animal ecology is a science which seeks to give some definite form to the vast number of observations which have been accumulated during the last few hundred years by field naturalists and various other people interested in wild animals. Ecology is concerned with reducing and co-ordinating vast available information concerning habits, life histories, and numbers of the different animals, with a view to solving some of the urgent practical problems arising as a result of man's becoming civilized and interfering with the animal and plant life around him.

Lichens of Importance

Several species of lichens are of economic importance, yielding dyes and foodstuffs. Iceland moss is edible, yielding a nutritious jelly. Reindeer moss is the principal food of the Lapland reindeer in the winter. Archil, a violet dye, is obtained from Roccella tinctoria, Roccella fuciformis, and Lecanoria tartarea. Litmus, also a dyestuff, is obtained from these lichens by exposure to the air in the presence of ammonia, potassium carbonate, etc.

Whalebone Serves as Teeth

Whalebone (its true name being baleen) is the curious stuff that grows in place of teeth in the upper jaws of whales, writes Jeanette Mirsley in "To the North." Baleen acts as a sieve, strains the many barrels of water gulped down by the whale as with wide open mouth it grazes the surface of the water, protects it from swallowing anything but the myriads of small molluscs on which it lives.

Opium for the Needy

Chinese charity dispenses more than necessities. Sometimes the destitute, starved for opium, can secure it at a Buddhist temple. There is one in Lichow in which a life-sized idol always has a handful for those who are too poor to buy their own. The supply is maintained by the wealthy citizens of the [illegible] Feeding Foster in Collier's Weekly.

Awakened early in the morning by the disturbed chickens, Mr. Hargreaves turned his dog out which ran the cat into a tree. A chance shot in the dark wounded the animal, knocking it from the tree and the dog finished the job of killing, but only after a hard fight and considerable damage had been done to the pup.

The column of heights gives the elevation of each tide above or below the level of the Coast Survey chart soundings. The numbers are always additive to the chart depth.

The data is practically the same for Point Arena Light, Navarro River Entrance, Little River Harbor, Mendocino Bay and Fort Bragg Landing. For Westport subtract 5 minutes from the time and for Shelter Cove add 0.8 ft. to high tide.

Albert Brown Died At Ft. Bragg Home Following Attack

Albert Brown of Fort Bragg, one of the county's outstanding men, and one of the coast's oldest, most prominent and highly respected citizens, died at his home last Wednesday morning, aged 86 years.

Mr. Brown was taken ill Tuesday and had several fanting spells. Medical relief was immediately summoned and he revived from the last attack and passed a fair night. Wednesday morning he got up, feeling somewhat better but laid down on a couch shortly thereafter, complained of feeling badly, and in a few minutes had passed away.

Mr. Brown was born at Argyle, Maine, February 11, 1849, and came to California and Mendocino just 50 years ago. He was first engaged as a clerk in the mercantile store of his cousin, the late Eugene Brown, pioneer coast merchant; later he was bookkeeper for the Mendocino Lumber company. He later, with local people, took over the Mendocino Lighting company and successfully managed it until it was sold to outside interests. He also organized and successfully managed for many years the Mendocino Farm Loan association. For some years past, he has conducted a hardware store at Mendocino, and despite his years, was at his place of business each day.

Mr. Brown was a most public spirited man, and gave a large share of his time to the public. He worked successfully for better county roads and for a coast highway, and had the satisfaction of living to see his work come to fruition in the incorporation of the Shoreline highway into the State highway system. He was one of the prime movers in the establishment of the first two high schools in Mendocino county, one at Mendocino and the other at Ukiah, and he served for many years as a school trustee. He also took a prominent part in securing a state park on this coast.

His widow and seven children survive. His sons and daughters are Mrs. Bell Gregory of Redondo, Edward Brown of Glen Ellen, Mrs. Florence Kuhn of Oakland, Albert Brown of Los Angeles, Miss Viola Brown of San Francisco, and Mrs. Thomas Blair of Redondo.

Funeral arrangements will be under the direction of the Cannarr Funeral Home.

THE COUNTY'S MONEY

County Treasurer D. C. Smith reports a balance on hand September 1 of $365,469.94. August 5 the balance on hand was $383,905.20; August collections were $35,849.29; disbursements were $54,284.55. Of the month's receipts, motor vehicles and tax redemptions accounted for $10,871.71, the remainder being miscellaneous paypayments.

Editor and Mrs. Ray Newland of the Redwood Journal are expected home today from their 3-week trip to Washington and Oregon.

County Supervisors In Regular Meeting

The board of supervisors, in regular session last Tuesday, accepted the bid of Barton & Ells for construction of the Leggett Valley-Rockport county highway for a price of $18,984.20, approved the contract of the U. S. Biological survey for hunting and trapping predatory animals, and the contract with the state forestry division for fire prevention.

On acceptance of the resignation of W. A. Thornton, J. C. Roberts, post service officer of Lewis White post, American Legion, was appointed to act for the board in investigating veteran burial claims.

Consolidation of the Long Valley, Farley, LaRue and Wheelbarrow district schools with the Willits elementary schools was approved as recommended by County Superintendent J. W. Taylor.

A resolution requesting establishment of a CCC camp near Branscomb for the purpose of building trails and roads for fire protection, was directed to the state forester.

Charles Perkins was appointed Mendocino county director and a resolution adopted favoring the San Francisco, Marin, Sonoma, Humboldt and Mendocino counties shoreline district directorate for the purpose of securing a cooperative Shoreline survey; $2,385 were appropriated as the county's share of the expense.

The board approved the plans submitted for the 150-foot steel bridge over the Navarro river near River Rest on the Philo and Greenwood road, as prepared by Surveyor E. H. Smith, and sealed bids ordered advertised.

Hors-d'œuvre

ad captandum vulgus.

Assassination of Huey P. Long followed as a matter of course the actions of a man running wild with the lust of power, who must have known the temper of the people with whom he dealt, yet elected to ignore the rights of all who dared to oppose his will, and thought to safeguard his person with a picked squad of gunmen.

There is no justification for his assassination, yet, it was as sure to come as day was to follow night, and no amount of condemnation heaped upon the instigators can make it seem other than the only immediate solution.

Louisiana's head, momentarily bowed in shame, will eventually be held higher by being purged of this blot on her body politic.

With exceptions of the banks and courthouse, business was transacted as usual in Ukiah Admission day. A lot of states poke fun at California, citing that all states had a day of admission but only California makes of it a holiday. But there's a difference: Other states were admitted into the Union, while California admitted the rest of the states into fellowship with her. California's Admission day really should be observed more universally.

Going to the Dogs.—"There was a day," said President Roosevelt in his radio address to the national convention of Young Democrats in Milwaukee, "when political sages, or those who controlled them, took the attitude that anything new, or what they called 'new-fangled,' would lead to dire results. There is nothing new in those prophecies of gloom. I read these lines in a paper the other day—a little poem entitled 'Going to the Dogs.' "

My grandpa notes the world's worn cogs,
And says we're going to the dogs;
His granddad, in his house of logs,
Swore things were going to the dogs;
His dad, among the Flemish bogs,
Vowed things were going to the dogs;
The caveman, in his queer skin togs,
Said things were going to the dogs;
But this is what I wish to state—
The dogs have had an awful wait.

found the objectionable bedding had been removed."

"The facilities for sewage disposal are beyond expression. Construction of a septic tank or some other sort of disposal plant is an immedite necessity. We cannot condone a laxity in administration which permits the present condition to exist," says another part of the report.

Calling attention to economy, which is offered as justification for the present system of administration, the report says that in care of the aged and the indigent, economy should not be carried to a point of inhumanity.

In its recommendation, the committee advises that there should be two male nurses; that women should be brought together and attended by a female nurse, and a responsible person should be in control at all times.

It is suggested that a superintendent, at the head of the hospital and farm, should reside on the premises and be directly responsible to the board of supervisors, and that care of the sick should be under the control of the county physician, with responsibility to the supervisors.

In naming its conclusions, the committee said, "From our investigations and deliberations we have reached the conclusion that Mendocino county is not meeting the obligations which society owes to the aged and others who find it necessary to use the county hospital and we say frankly that conditions as we found them shock the conscience."

Removal of the two bedridden men from the present quarters is recommended, and among other immediate needs advocated are sewage disposal, cleaning up of unsanitary conditions, repairing and painting of buildings, utilization as far as possible of the detention home, employment of sufficient help that inmates may have adequate attention and a complete reorganization of the administration, with a resident, full-time superintendent, responsible directly to the board of supervisors.

The report is signed by Charles Kasch, foreman; Jessie S. Hildreth, secretary, and J. W. Cowen, member.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Substance" will be the subject of the Lesson-Sermon Sunday, September 15, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The Golden Text will be: "Ye had compassion of me in my bonds, and took joyfully the spoiling of your goods, knowing in yourselves that ye have in heaven a better and an enduring substance" (Hebr. 10: 34). Other Bible citations will include: "Let no man deceive himself. If any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise. For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. For it is written. He taketh the wise in their own craftiness. And again, The Lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they are vain" (I Cor. 3: 18-20).

The Lesson-Sermon will also include the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "God's thoughts are perfect and eternal, are substance and Life. Material and temporal thoughts are human, involving error, and since God, Spirit, is the only cause, they lack a divine cause. The temporal and material are not then creations of Spirit. . . . Mind creates His own likeness in ideas, and the substance of an idea is very far from being the supposed substance of nonintelligent matter" (pp. 286, 257).
